QUESTION 1

1.1 Study the scenario and answer the questions.

Advertising was initially meant to make people aware of the goods available in a market. It was as simple as announcing what you have in your store or the services your businesses offered.

The notion that the media is primarily there to give us news is not very true. If the truth may be told, the media is there to gather audiences, package them into a pricey commodity and sell it to advertisers. Advertisers, on the other hand, are always on the lookout for a target audience to persuade them that a product or service is better than those of competitors.

- 1.1.1 Differentiate between advertising and public relations. (1 + 1) (2)
- 1.1.2 Give FIVE advantages of advertising a product or service. (5 × 2) (10)
- 1.1.3 Explain how the PRP may use the AIDA principle in his or her advertisement or service. (4 × 2) (8)
- 1.1.4 Advertisers may choose to use television to attract audiences.
Give THREE advantages and TWO disadvantages of using television as communication media. (5 × 2) (10)
- 1.2 Organisational communication is a subfield of communication studies and comprises the consideration, analysis and criticism of the role of communication in organisational contexts. Its main function is to inform, persuade and promote goodwill. The flow of communication could either be formal or informal. Communication flowing through formal channels is downward, horizontal and upward whereas communication through informal channels is generally termed as the grapevine.
 - 1.2.1 State THREE objectives of advertising and communication media as mentioned in the case study. (3 × 2) (6)
 - 1.2.2 Identify from the case study THREE formal channels of communication. (3 × 2) (6)
- 1.3 Which type of media is each of the following:
